Manuscript draft (example)

I will start debating about _____.

· In the meantime, I'd like to express my opinion on the affirming side quickly. The time limit is 3 minutes.

* I think that it is good to use a timer when measuring time.

* Although time limit can be expressed somewhat even after time, if it is too long, please stop at the discretion of the moderator.

· Continue to ask the negation of denial. The time limit is 3 minutes.

· Next is the first refutation. In the first refutation, we will counter the opposition 's argument. Then, please give a first refutation of affirmative side
Please. The time limit is two minutes.

· Next is the first refutation of the denied side. The time limit is two minutes.

· Second, it is the second refutation. In the second refutation, we will counter the opposition first refutation. Then, please give me a second refutation of the denied side. The time limit is two minutes.

· Second, it is the second refutation of the affirmative side. The time limit is two minutes.

· Next, we will move on to mutual discussion. In the mutual discussion, you can freely express opinions, oppose your arguments, and ask questions. There is time for mutual discussion in order of positive side and negative side. At the opponent's time, if it is about a word, you can answer questions and so on. Let's start mutual discussion on the affirmative side. The time limit is one minute.

· Next is a mutual discussion on the denial side. The time limit is one minute.

· Now, I will enter the summary. First, set a time to summarize the summary for one minute.

* The summary itself can be written at any time during the debate. However, we need to consider the results of the mutual discussion, so we will set up a time to summarize the 1 minute summary here.

· (After 1 minute) Then please state the abstract from the affirmative side. The time limit is two minutes.

· Next, please state the summary of the negative side. The time limit is two minutes.

· Then, I will enter a judge by referee from this. I will be going through the examination time of 1 minute from now.

* The referee, please decide which is winning by this time.

· (After 1 minute) Then, please raise your hand if you think that the affirmative side is winning.

· Then, please raise your hand if you think that the one on the denied side is winning.

· As a result of the judgment by the referee, the affirmative / negated side won the positive side _____ vote and the negative side _____ vote.

I will finish the debate about _____.
